VALKYRIE GOING VERY FAST.

Making Great Time in Her Second Spin Down the Bay.

Her Progress Reported by "Evening World" Carrier Pigeons.

Lord Dunsen's challenging yacht Valkyrie went down the bay this morning for her second trial spin in this country. She was followed by "Evening World" carrier pigeons, and her progress was reported from time to time by means of carrier pigeons from the cove of J. C. Berry, of Tompkinsville, S. I.

Valkyrie got under way at 11:10 A. M. She left her anchorage at Bay Ridge at that time, with Lord Dunsen, Charles Kerr, brother-in-law of Designer Watson, Sallmaker Ratsey, Pilot, Martin Lyons and Maitland Kersey aboard.

She sailed away with only her mainsail and jib set, and the crew were slow in getting the mainsail into place. They took thirty minutes to finish the job.

A powerful breeze blew from the north-northwest, covering the bay with white-caps. It was such a wind that ancient mariners term "a soldier's breeze," and which enables sailors to go about anywhere they desire.

Valkyrie shot out at once for the Narrows. At her heels were several yachts with plenty of enthusiastic yachtsmen aboard, all anxious to get a line on the ability of the English speeder. Among the yachts that chased after Valkyrie were the Yama, Iles and Ariel.

Valkyrie scudded down the bay and made a nine-knot run. At 12:11 P. M. she turned the southwest spit buoy, making the time of her run, nine miles in one hour and one minute. The breeze kept stiff and the cutter scudded along at a rapid pace.

The schooner yacht Ariel and the other craft accompanied her down the bay were speedily left behind.

Valkyrie reached the point of the Hook at 12:42 P. M. and stood off on the port tack to the southward of the Ramer Beacon. She held this tack for two minutes, however, and then whirled like a top to the starboard. It was noticed that she turned wonderfully quickly.

She came about at 12:50, and worked up into the Swach Channel by short tacks, the waves, or rather through them, for her keen bow cut the choppy sea like a knife.

Hardly a wrinkle was noticeable in her mainsail, but the loach seemed to be flying.

After working about in the lower bay for some time, she came to anchor at the Narrows. Her progress against the wind was thought to be a trifle slow, but she stood up well, and was apparently not pressed.

She reached the Narrows at 2:30 P. M. and came to anchor at the Narrows. She was under main, jib and staysail.

At 12:19 she was in the Narrows. The schooner yacht Ariel and the other craft accompanied her down the bay were speedily left behind.

RADICAL REMEDY FOR THE EVIL.

In the Jury's Opinion the Entire System Should Be Changed.

RACE TRACK, MORRIS PARK, Sept. 29.—The opening day of the New York Jockey Club's Fall meeting was not auspicious. The grounds did not overflow with crowds, nor were the grand stand benches occupied to any great extent.

The empty seats were in the great majority, and not over 1,500 people distributed themselves over the grounds.

The cold, raw weather was undoubtedly the cause of the slim attendance, for the programme was attractive and promised excellent sport.

Just before the first race a shower of rain fell, and the sun sending its rays through it, made a most beautiful rainbow, both ends of which rested in the infield. The shower lasted only a few moments.

Only three horses started in the opening event, Melba, Dr. Hasbrouck, Correction and Sirocco.

Dr. Hasbrouck was, of course, an overwhelming favorite, at odds of 1 to 1, while Correction was the preferred of the pair at 6 to 1.

Correction upset the "sure thing" by running in front the entire distance and winning rather handsily by a neck.

NEW JERSEY DATES SETTLED.

After Oct. 15 They Divide the Time in a Satisfactory Manner.

CLIFTON, Sept. 29.—Despite the damp, chilly weather a fairly good crowd attended the races here to-day and saw a good card run off.

A cold wind blew directly across the track, and at intervals a fine rain fell, making things most uncomfortable.

The track, however, was in fairly good condition and the spectators kept themselves warm trying to pick the winners.

Yesterday's big match race and Tammany's only victory were about the only topics discussed here to-day.

Today's card was an attractive one, the fields being large and evenly balanced.

The handicap at a mile and a sixteenth was the feature of the programme and furnished a good contest.

The time of the race in New Jersey after Oct. 15 has been definitely and amicably settled, and the racing will divide the first twenty days after Oct. 15, Clifton will race from Nov. 8 to 15, inclusive, and Hightstown will take the last ten days. The Hightstown track will be open from Nov. 22 to Dec. 1, inclusive.

BRUNSWICK'S PLAGUE.

About Twenty New Cases of Yellow Fever To-Day.

BRUNSWICK, Ga., Sept. 29.—About twenty new cases of yellow fever were reported to-day.

One death has occurred, that of Mrs. J. H. Mullin, the wife of a gentleman who died last week.

Dr. Robert Taylor, who is in charge of the quarantine, says that the outbreak is favorable for a large increase in cases during the next few days, but that the epidemic will probably be small. The sudden fall of the temperature is a favorable sign.

FIVE HANGED AT ONCE.

A Thousand People See a Quintuple Execution in Georgia.

ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 29.—At noon today five negroes were hanged together on one scaffold at Mount Vernon, Montgomery County, Ga.

Three of them murdered Alex. Peterson, a rich merchant, last July, the fourth killed a five-year-old child and the fifth murdered a negro companion.

These were the first hangings in Montgomery County since the war. About 1,000 spectators surrounded the scaffold, which had been erected in a public place.

37 MINERS BURIED.

By a Heavy Fall of Ground at a Michigan Mine.

SHIPPING, Mich., Sept. 29.—A heavy fall of ground occurred at the Mansfield mine, near Crystal Falls, this morning, entombling thirty-seven men.

The accident occurred during the night, and when the water of the Michigan River came rushing into the mine the men at work were entombed like a lot of rats. It is hardly possible that any escaped.

Most of the victims are Cornish men, and nine-tenths of them are men with large families.

Mansfield is an isolated station on the Chicago and Northwestern Railroad.

The greatest excitement prevails, and it is almost impossible to get connected details of the disaster.

The wives and children of the buried miners are sending the air with their cries and wailing.

J. M. Longyear, of Marquette, is the principal owner of the Mansfield mine. The mine was the only active one in the Crystal Falls district on account of its being a producer of high-grade Bessemer ore. It had a production capacity of about seven tons per annum, and gave employment to about 100 men.

Last night's disaster has often been predicted, the mine having been a dangerous one.

STABBED BY A SMOEKER.

Longshoreman Marshall May Die of His Wounds.

As a result of a woman's quarrel Edward Marshall, a longshoreman, lies at the point of death in the Chambers Street Hospital, and Edward O'Hare, who did the stabbing, was held this morning in the Tombs Police Court without bail to await the result of his injuries.

The physicians at the hospital fear that the wounds will prove fatal.

Although the stabbing took place on Wednesday afternoon in the presence of several people, it was only late last night that the police located their man hiding in one of the tenements on South Street.

Marshall lives in one of these tenements with his wife and on the fourth floor of O'Hare, who is a shoemaker, had an argument. A friend of Marshall's, who is a shoemaker, procured a knife and with it came back to the attack. Marshall ran to his apartment, and O'Hare followed him, and when Marshall was alone, O'Hare stabbed him in the back.

Marshall was taken to the hospital, and O'Hare was taken to the Tombs Police Court.

The Grand Jury this afternoon filed their long-expected presentment, the result of their investigation of the Coroners' office.

The work of the Grand Jury has been thorough, and in their presentment they recommend that many important changes be made in the Coroners' Office.

The presentment was filed with Judge Fitzgerald, in Part I of General Sessions. It was read to Judge Fitzgerald by Foreman Emanuel Bloomingdale.

Judge Fitzgerald told Mr. Bloomingdale that he would refer the presentment to the proper authorities. The presentment is as follows:

Court of General Sessions of the Peace, City and County of New York, September Term, 1893.

The Grand Jury present as follows:

During the present term the Grand Jury in the discharge of its duty visited the House of Detention and found that the same was in a state of disrepair, and that the prisoners were crowded and filthy, and that the food was of a poor quality, and that the medical attendance was of a poor quality, and that the discipline was of a poor quality, and that the management was of a poor quality, and that the system was of a poor quality, and that the entire system should be changed.
